

AMERICAN MOVIES IN THEIR MOMENT:
THE SILVER AGE, 1968-1980

History 276/FMS 245
Spring 2018
TR 9.40-10.55
Morey 525

Robert Westbrook
440 Rush Rhees X59349
Hours: T 11.30-1
robert.westbrook@rochester.edu

Is a dream a lie if it don't come true/Or is it something worse?
--Bruce Springsteen, "The River" (1980).

This course, one of two movie courses I offer, considers feature films as evidence for the cultural historian of modern America by considering the role of movies in the social imaginary of distinct moments in the nation's history. That moment for this iteration of the course is the "Seventies" (1968-1980).

FILMS AND READINGS

The films can all be found on reserve in the Art and Music Library, on line, or for purchase as DVDs. Some of them will be streamed via Blackboard. There is one book required for the course: Beth Bailey and David Farber, eds., America in the Seventies. I have ordered copies at the UR Bookstore, and it is available at Amazon and other on-line vendors (often at reduced prices). It is also on 2-hour reserve in Rush Rhees Library. Other short readings will be available on Blackboard.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

I will lecture once in each segment of the course, providing a historical context for our movies, and the other two classes of each segment will consist of a discussion of the relevant films.

Class Participation: All students are expected to attend each class and actively participate in the discussions of the films.

Papers: There will be no examinations in the course. Each student will write four papers, three short (1500-2000 word) essays and one longer (2500-3000 word) paper, requiring some modest research. The first of the short papers will be an analysis of what you regard as a pivotal scene from one of the assigned films. This paper is due by 22 February. The second of the short papers will be an analysis of the use of music in another of the assigned films. This paper is due by 3 April. The third of the short papers will be a response to a review of one of the assigned films by the leading film critic of the time, Pauline Kael. This paper is due by 24 April. The final, longer paper will be devoted to an examination of the seventies films of one of the following directors: Woody Allen, Robert Altman, Francis Ford Coppola, Paul Mazursky, Alan Pakula, or Martin Scorsese. This paper is due by 8 May. Further details on these papers will be forthcoming.

Grading: Grading in the course will be weighted as follows: short papers (20% each); longer paper (30%); class participation (10%).

ACADEMIC HONESTY

All assignments and activities associated with this course must be performed in accordance with the University of Rochester's Academic Honesty Policy. More information is available at: www.rochester.edu/college/honesty.

SCHEDULE

I will lecture once in each segment of the course, providing a historical context for our movies, and the other two classes of each segment will consist of a discussion of the relevant films.

18 January Introduction: Movies and the Social Imaginary

Farewell to the Sixties

23 January Lecture
 25 January Easy Rider
 30 January Gimme Shelter

Reading: Marshall Berman, "Sympathy for the Devil"

Nixonland

1 February Lecture

6 February All the President's Men
 8 February Godfather Part II (Part I recommended)

Reading: Mark Feeney, "The Conversation" (Nixon at the Movies).

Good Evening, Vietnam

13 February Lecture
 15 February Deer Hunter
 20 February Apocalypse Now

Reading: Michael Herr, "Breathing In" (Dispatches).

Market Failure

22 February Lecture
First Short Paper Due

27 February Network
 1 March Blue Collar

Reading: Jefferson Cowie, "Vigorously Left, Right, and Center" in Bailey and Farber, America in the Seventies; Jefferson Cowie, "A Collective Sadness" (Stayin' Alive).

Fear City

6 March Lecture
 8 March Taxi Driver

9 and 11 March Spring Break

20 March Manhattan

Reading: Mark Jacobson, "What Everyone Gets Wrong about '70s New York" <http://nymag.com/daily/intelligencer/2015/09/what-everyone-gets-wrong-about-70s-new-york.html>; Christopher Lasch, "The Narcissistic Personality of Our Time" (The Culture of Narcissism).

The Color Line

22 March Lecture
 27 March The Mack

29 March: Alambrista

Eric Porter, "Affirming and Disaffirming Actions" in Bailey and Farber, America in the Seventies; Albert Camarillo, "Alambrista and the Historical Context of Mexican Immigration to the United States in the Twentieth Century"

New New South

3 April Lecture
Second Short Paper Due

5 April Nashville
 10 April Norma Rae

Reading: Bruce Schulman, From Cotton Belt to Sunbelt, "Conclusion: Place Over People"

The Feminine Mystique

12 April Lecture
 17 April Diary of a Mad Housewife
 19 April An Unmarried Woman

Reading: Beth Bailey, "She 'Can Bring Home the Bacon,'" in Bailey and Farber, America in the Seventies

Blockbusting: The Empire Strikes Back

24 April Lecture
Third Short Paper Due

26 April Rocky
 1 May Star Wars

Reading: Christopher Capozzala, "It Makes You Want to Believe in the Country," in Bailey and Farber, America in the Seventies

8 May Final Paper Due

