Course Petitions

A student may petition for a specific course to be counted toward the minor, even if it has not been previously identified as a Latin American, Caribbean, and Latinx studies course. As we encourage experiential learning as part of the program, community-engagement, internships, and study abroad coursework will be considered. The student must turn in a syllabus for the course to be considered. The program coordinator, along with the curriculum committee, will determine whether the course will count as listed or if specific Latin America-related research is required.
