

LINGUISTICS DEPARTMENT COLLOQUIA

KATE LINDSEY

BOSTON UNIVERSITY

DATA MANAGEMENT FOR LINGUISTS: MAINTAINING ORGANIZATION, COLLABORATIONS, AND ACCESSIBILITY FOR YOURSELF AND THE COMMUNITY

In this talk, I will discuss my corpus of the Ende language and other Pahoturi River languages of Papua New Guinea that I created based on the fieldwork that I did for my dissertation (Lindsey 2019). I will reveal how I developed and maintained the three important criteria for evaluating archival collections (accessibility, quality, quantity) and how this has yielded a broad research program with collaborations in sociolinguistics, typology, and linguistic structure.

Friday, October 15th, 2021
12pm EDT
Lattimore 513